Groton Grange No. 7.

The Groton grange gave a conundrum supper on Friday evening, November 3. Tables were conveniently arranged and profusely decorated with flowers. Sixty-one members were present; each person being furnished with a menu of pen decorations on card board, the following of which is a copy:

What women need most. White bread
Hub's favorite. Baked Beans
School girl's fancy. Pickles
Ram's heads. Butter

The young lady waiters were dressed in fancy-colored caps and aprons, producing a fine artistic effect. No order was served until a correct interpretation of the item selected from the menu was given. Although there was more or less hesitancy and delay, prolonging the supper to a more than usual extent, it is unnecessary to say that no one left the tables hungry, and the choicest viands found ready callers.

Previous to, and after the supper original conundrums, involving either the name or person of every member of the grange, were given out for solution, the time of two minutes being given for an answer. The conundrums created great merriment, many being guessed while others waited for the solution which the lapse of two minutes of time gave. At intervals during the evening instrumental music, interspersed with song, with and without chorus, met the hearty approval of the large and merry company. This form of entertainment will be found a great success by any grange which wishes something new. What was served for supper may be guessed, or, if the reader is not a Yankee for guessing, the key will be given on request.

City vs. Country Life.

I would like to add a few words in behalf of the Country and the Farmer.

Some people have an idea that the city is composed of a finer and higher grade of men and women than are found in the country.

I read an article quite recently, where the writer introduces the "contrast between the two extremes of Irish life, as the basis of an illustration of the difference between farm life and City life." he also added "that the farmers and their families, were as a class, quite ignorant in regard to the news of the day, both Home and Foreign."

I do not know what locality he could have visited, but conclude he could'nt have wandered very far from home. What class of men has more time or better facilities for cultivating the mind than the farmer? Daily and Weekly papers are easy to procure and nearly every family has one or more, and most towns can boast of a free library, so that there appears to be no good reason why the farmer and his family cannot be well informed. As far as my observation goes, they are. A large number of farmers' daughters are teachers in cities. Where can you find a farmer's wife whose ideas of human nature and the world are limited to her own locality? I have read that when "La Fayette visited this Country in 1826 he visited several country towns, one of which was in western Massachusetts. An Artillery Co. composed almost wholly of farmers turned out to do him honor. After he had watched their manoeuvers for a few moments, he remarked to a gentleman by his side". That is the finest company of men I ever saw." Surely the mark of intelligence could not have been wanting, for them to receive so high a compliment from such a person. No one, well informed, would presume to say that the wives and daughters of farmers are in any respect inferior to the better class of wives and daughters of our cities. Children reared in the country are generally as well bred, they have better air, better exercise, better health and often better morals.

I contend that the country exhibits its full proportion of health and intelligence

Genoese Pastry

Take 1/4 lb. butter worked to a cream with 1/4 lb. powdered sugar. Beat in 1 egg thoroughly and another until 4 have been beaten in.
Then add 1/4 lb. flour and beat for 5 min.
Bake at once in a very shallow buttered tin. 15 minutes
Turn out on a sieve and spread on raspberry jam thinly and ice with chocolate icing
Put in a hot oven to set the frosting
When cool cut in diamonds and serve in a basket with flowers and leaves.

Condensed cream—butter.
Belligerent ram—butter (butt her).
Pride of the Hub—baked beans.
Fruit of the vines—pickles.
Schoolgirls' delight—pickles.
From under the Rhine—cheese.
Life preservers—doughnuts.
Surrounded vacuums—doughnuts.
Sweet mixture—cake.
Merry-go-round—jelly roll.
Veracity exemplified—washington pie.
Eve's temptation sandwich—apple pie.
A tart affair—apple pie.
A costly cosmopolitan conglomeration—mince pie.
Mixed-up sandwich—mince pie.
Golden preparation—custard pie.
Milk sandwich—cream pie.
A good arrangement—cream pie.
A sailor and a T—tart.
A spring offering—water.
Adam's ale—water.
A fragrant leaf—tea.
Chinese cordial—tea.
An eye-opener—coffee.
Foreign berries boiled—coffee.
Something to take—cocoa.
Food for babies—milk.

Spring's offering—water.
Boston's overthrown—tea.

Miss Paul Pry.

NEW HAMPSHIRE. 1894

The annual meeting of East Rockingham Pomona grange was held on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 6, with Gilman grange at Exeter. The officers of the preceding year were re-elected with one or two exceptions. A bountiful collation was provided by Gilman grange and in the evening the fifth degree was worked upon four candidates. The next meeting of the Pomona will probably be held with Kingston grange.

Thursday evening, Dec. 7, was lecturer's and overseer's evening in Hampton Falls grange. The third and fourth degrees were worked upon two candidates and the resolution censuring the management of the agricultural college was indefinitely postponed. Afterward a bountiful supper was served, the tables being waited on by young ladies dressed in fancy caps and aprons. The following menu was served amid considerable merriment: Pacific islands, Eve's temptation hidden, A president and his dessert, Brown stone front, A bit of amber, Snow-bound, What is raised in New Hampshire but not in Vermont, Backbone of history, Orbs of gold, Spheres, Gentlemen's favorite.

ALL BOOKS BAD FOR SOMEBODY—

Mr William A. Leahy

IT needs no college of censors to teach us that a deliberately mali cious or sensual book belongs, no on the booksellers' stalls, but in the hottest part of the furnace, where its pitch may add brilliancy to the blaze

But, beyond this very definite and lim ited field lies a great hinterland, the boundaries of which no commission has authority to fix. For good and bad, like taste, have not only latitude and longi tude, but period and season, age, sex and conjugal condition.

To the German autocrat Lieutenan Bilse's book is bad because it hints the truth about standing armies. Realty holders regarded "Progress and Pov erty" as a trumpet call to revolution The south saw no pathos in "Uncl Tom's Cabin," but blue and gray unite
